Ken Zimmerman

Ken Zimmerman discussed the issues surrounding our kids and suicide potential.

Several programs are in place to assist in identifying potential conditions that may lead children to take their lives.

United Way, Columbia University, and other organizations have created test procedures designed to pin point suspect conditions.

As is often the case money is needed to develop and sustain these prevention programs. To that end a recent $1.5 million grant was received by the state of Iowa to apply to this type of mental health process.

As parents and friends, we were challenged to be pro-active and confront our youngsters with the question, "How can I help you be safe?"

Further, we can all be part of the "Support System" needed by all to help keep them safe.

Thanks, Ken.
