Garrett Wilcox, speaking for the American Red Cross of North Central Iowa presented our program.

Garrett discussed the ARC Disaster preparedness planning and other responses to emergencies both locally and nationwide.

Led by volunteers and guided by its congressional charter and the fundamental principles of the International Red Cross Movement relief is provided to victims of disaster and help people prevent, prepare for and respond to emergencies.

Most local responses are to house fires. Recently some assistance was provided to flood victims in the S E Minnesota region.

The hurricanes of the past years have of course also been a very active response priority, and have stretched the ARC resources both financially and personnel wise.

The local ARC chapter is always in need of additional volunteers, and Garrett provided an application form should anyone care to apply.

Garrett is a native of Mason City, and clearly is committed to the ideal of service to his fellow man in need.

Thank you Garrett for a most informative presentation

Garrett Wilcox
